Grimshaw firm wins contract for sewer line

By Dale Leman
Waterbrook Construction Ltd. of Grimsby has been awarded the contract for Phase 2 of the south sewer trunk line, at a bid price of $825,000.00.
The bid was the lowest of seven submitted for the work, which will complete the sewer trunk line which runs from the south sewage lagoon to the three-lagoon system southeast of town.
Total cost of the second stage of the trunk line has been estimated at $2,345,000, with $12 million of that cost to be paid through a grant from Alberta Environment.
The remaining $1,125,000 will be borrowed through debentures, and before construction can commence, that debenture borrowing must be approved by the Local Authorities according to the designating and consent for the town.
Mayor Don said the debenture must be approved by the town council before a start order can be given.
"I would say that if everything goes according to plan, and if the weather holds up, we should be able to get started in mid-July," Mr. Don said.
Phase 2 of the line will consist of 6,500 metres of 900 mm diameter pipe, to connect the east and west ends of the trunk line. Phases 1 and 2, consisting of a half-mile of pipe in all, were completed in 1979 at a total cost of $800,000.

Western Review captures awards

For the second year in a row, the Western Review has been recognized by the Canadian Community Newspaper Association (CCNA).
The CCNA announced last week that the Western Review has taken third place in the all-around competition for weekly tabloid newspapers with a circulation of between 5,000 and 9,999.
In the same competition last year, the Western Review took first place awards for best editorial page and best sports page, as well as a first place award for best sports photo.
The Western Review's sister newspaper, the Rocky Mountain Express, captured the all-around and front page awards, and took second in the editorial page competition. The Express is in the same circulation class as the Western Review.
In the class for tabloids with a circulation between 5,000 and 9,999, the Leduc Representative, the parent of the Western Review, captured awards for best editorial page and best sports page.

Land sale for hospital planned

By Dale Leman
Two council last week authorized the sale, in principle, of 10 acres of park reserve land to the Drayton Valley hospital board. In order that construction of the $10 million municipal hospital can proceed without delay.
"We have been waiting for the hospital for the last 10 years, and I don't think we should delay it for even one minute," mayor Mayhew said.
Both the hospital board and the town have prepared proposals of the land in question, and according to mayor Mayhew, the two proposals are practically the same.
The hospital board will pay for the installation of sewer and water to the property line through the payment of off-site levies, and will also pay for all site utility costs, council Ken Koshon told council.
In addition, mayor Mayhew said that although not confirmed, the provincial department of hospitals has indicated that it might be willing to pick up some of the utility costs involved.
"In view of the town's financial position," mayor Mayhew said.

Rodeo
The Lions Club's Rodeo goes this weekend, and organizers are promising a bigger and better rodeo than last year, with two new events added. Action at the West Valley Park rodeo grounds gets underway Saturday afternoon and runs right through to Sunday Evening, with the finale in the pony chaser and chuckwagon race.

Town seeks better deal from county

By Dale Leman
Drayton Valley town councillors are looking for a better split of county-town cost sharing in a number of areas, and they took their concerns to a joint meeting of the Parkland county and town councils last week.

Mayor Bob Mayhew told county councillors that rather than demanding money, the town is simply asking the county to consider the number of county residents who use town facilities, and perhaps consider a realignment of cost sharing programs already in effect between the two municipalities.

Town receives more rec fun funds

The Town of Drayton Valley will get an additional $10,000 to spend in recreation as a result of a cabinet decision on May 28 to expand a provincial government grant.

The provincial cabinet approved a 300 per cent increase in a per capita grant to municipalities to offset some of the costs to run recreation departments.

Under last year's formula municipalities received a $1 per capita grant for the first 20,000 people in any given municipality and an additional 50 cents per capita for populations over the 20,000 mark.

This year, the grant has been boosted to 88 per cent for all municipalities regardless of population, except for some very small communities.

Under the new formula, Drayton Valley, with a population of 5,976 in the last census would receive $15,288 this year compared to approximately $5,000 last year.

The County of Parkland, with a population of 23,705, should receive $71,309 this year to assist with the cost of operating its recreation department.

The City of Edmonton, which received $116,000 last year from the grant, will receive $1.8 million this year.

Province-wide the new formula will cost the province $6.5 million more than last year, says Terry Archer, executive assistant for Recreation Minister Peter Trevisan.

Mr. Archer added that the major increase in per capita funding came as a result of a census committee recommendation and submission from municipalities across Alberta.

"We are not here to make any demands for money—we are just here as friends, and we are asking that you consider some of our request in view of the financial embarrassment we are currently in," mayor Mayhew told county councillors.

At the top of the mayor's list of concerns was cost sharing for recreational facilities, and he explored the possibility of getting the county to share the full costs of operation of town facilities.

Currently, the county pays a portion of the deficit incurred through the operation of the arena and the swimming pool, based on the number of county residents who use those two facilities.

"Since Drayton Valley is a centre of the county as far as recreation is concerned, we want to enter into some sort of joint recreation program, covering not only the pool and the arena, but other facilities as well," mayor Mayhew said.

County recreation director Jim Pratt said that while the county is currently paying a portion of deficit costs for the pool and arena, "there are probably other areas that are being used by county residents."

"We already share the deficit costs on a sewer basis, and the county's capital cost sharing program does contribute to building costs for additional to existing facilities, but I'm sure our residents use ball diamonds and other fields within the town," Mr. Pratt said.

Mayor Mayhew also inquired about the possibility of setting up a regional recreation commission involving representation from the County of Parkland and the Town of Drayton Valley.

"There are mutual interests here and mutual concerns and perhaps by pulling the populations of the districts together, we might be able to get a better deal and solve some of the recreation problems in the area," mayor Mayhew said.

The town is also looking for county help in the operation of the municipal library, which will face an estimated deficit of about $50,000 in 1981.

Mayor Mayhew noted that 22 per cent of the membership in the library are held by county residents, and he proposed the county could look to splitting the deficit on a similar basis to recreational facilities. He also invited the county to appoint a number at large to the library board.

Mayor Mayhew also asked the county to consider a cost sharing program to deal with the operation of the town dump, which cost the town more than $97,000 in 1980.

About 200 county residents make use of the town dump, according to councillor Bob Booth.

However, county reeve Les Miller was amazed at the costs incurred in operating the dump, and wondered why the costs of operating a dump for 8,000 people can be so high.

"The county operates several dumps that serve more than 5,000 people, and our costs are no way near as high as yours are," reeve Miller said.

Councillor Booth responded by saying that Drayton Valley's dump is well looked after, a claim that he says can't be made by all municipalities.

"Our landfill is compacted and filled three times a week, in accordance with provincial regulations, and that is not done by probably 90 per cent of the dumps in this province," councillor Booth said.

Parkland county council will deal with the town's request at future meetings of the council, and will refer some of them to county administration for comment and recommendations.

Library hours changed for summer

The Drayton Valley Municipal Library will cut back its hours of operation during the months of July and August, but the library will be open more than in previous summers.

At council's regular meeting last Thursday, council approved summer hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, as well as from 11 noon to 1 p.m. on Wednesdays.

The recommendations were made to council by councillor Jim Wolff on behalf of the library board, and reflect a desire to offer reasonable summer services to the public.

"The board really felt that the library should provide an adequate service to the public in the summer months, and they felt that seven hours per week would be adequate," councillor Wolff said.

During the winter and spring months, the library is open an average of 18 hours per week, he added.

In the past, the library has been open only one or two hours per week during the summer.

The move to increase summer operational hours resulted from a belief on the part of the library board that in the new facility, the demand to use the library would be greater, councillor Wolff noted.

In addition, library employees were given an extra 1 1/2 hours clerical time in which to sort and resolve books, catch up on overdue notices and generally keep the library running.

Normally, the staff is able to pretty well keep up during normal operation hours, but in view of the fact that the library will be cut back to seven hours per week, they felt they would not have enough time during those hours," councillor Wolff said in explaining the clerical time.

The hours decided on by council are an experiment, and if use during the summer does not warrant keeping the library open for seven hours per week, the hours will be shortened appropriately.

Car chase leads to arrest

RCMP searched for a 25-year-old man for three hours with a police dog last Tuesday night after a high speed car chase on Highway 22, and in attempt to escape, drove the vehicle through a ditch, and into a field, said RCMP.

RCMP brought out a police dog from Stony Plain to track the offender, and found him three hours later, 15 miles away in a house in Rocky Mountain.

Craig Gelfert was charged with dangerous driving after he had RCMP on a high speed chase for 17 miles early Wednesday morning. RCMP had initially attempted to stop him in town after he was seen driving erratically, said Cpl. Tom Tibner.

Two RCMP vehicles pursued Mr. Gelfert in his vehicle north on Highway 22, until Mr. Gelfert stopped in the middle of the highway and backed up into one of the police cars. He then pulled a U-turn on the highway, and in attempt to escape, drove the vehicle through a ditch, and into a field, said RCMP.

Craig Gelfert was charged with dangerous driving in provincial court on June 2. His case has been remanded.

THE BIG DITCH on 50 Street, south is now being filled in, and traffic should be back to normal on the north-south route through Drayton Valley in a short time. The road was torn up to allow for installation of services to subdivisions in the south part of town, and caused a few problems for people going to the Westwind Motor Inn, Woodland Chrysler and Sakura's Auction Mart.

Pricing talks

Today, federal energy minister Marc Lalonde and his Alberta counterpart Peter Lougheed are meeting in Ottawa to try and hammer out oil prices that will be acceptable to both levels of government.

However, we don't hold out much hope for an agreement of any kind to come of those talks, except perhaps an agreement to disagree.

The positions of each level of government are well known by now, and we won't delve any further into the machinations of Lalonde or Lougheed—who really knows what they are thinking anyway.

What is of interest, however, is the track record of the Liberals, vis-a-vis oil prices, since they took power in February of last year.

Prime Minister Trudeau and his cronies were elected, by and large, on the strength of a campaign promise to keep gas prices below the 18 cents per gallon proposed by Joe Clark's Conservatives. That promise eventually led to the fall of the Clark government.

Since February 1980, however, the Liberals have managed to not just break, but absolutely shatter, the one campaign promise made.

In the time the Liberals have been in power, gas prices to the consumer have increased by up to 80 cents per gallon, depending on the region, and crude oil prices to refiners have increased 84 per cent under the federal NEP.

The Liberals have instituted these increases, not by an upfront method, based on actual economic principles, but "through the back door," blocking any serious opposition debate.

By adding tax onto tax, levy onto levy and subsidy level onto subsidy level, the Liberals have managed to increase the price of gasoline to triple what the Conservatives under Joe Clark would have raised it to.

And who is reaping the benefits of these increased prices?

Certainly not the oil producers, who were paid a wellhead price of $17.75 per barrel, just one dollar above the price paid last fall and a mere 4.3 per cent of the increase.

Certainly not the producing provinces, who get to keep only five per cent of the increase. It isn't the refiners, who are paying a price of $27.05 per barrel of crude, up from a price of $18.50 per barrel in existence before the introduction of the NEP. That change was a mere $1.75 above the wellhead price of crude oil.

And it most certainly isn't the consumer, who has had to absorb astronomical increases in the price of gasoline and home heating oil.

No, the real winner in this oil pricing lottery is the federal government, which has succeeded in stocking up a fat 80 per cent of the increase in its own pocket.

And through it all, the feds insist that they are not benefitting from all these increases; that they are justified in light of the cutbacks in production imposed by the Alberta government; that the price increases are necessary because the feds have to subsidize eastern refineries, who use imported crude oil bought on the world market at the rate of $15 million per day.

The Liberals say the cost of subsidizing is designed to ensure our dependence on foreign crude, and to achieve energy self-sufficiency by 1990.

However, the policies are succeeding only in driving the amount of imported crude up, to the level where we now rely on foreign markets for about 25 per cent of our energy needs.

Today, the central figures in this machination being played out in Ottawa are Ed Stelmach and Joe Clark. In what can only be a futile attempt to resolve their differences.

And while they squabble, the rest of us continue to pay, supporting the childish antics of a provincial government which appears to be more concerned with its nose to the grindstone, and the big brother superiority on the federal government, digging itself into an early grave.

I have an influence over the minds of the people of Canada, and I leave them this legacy. Whatever you do, adhere to the principles we are a great country, and shall become one of the greatest in the universe if we preserve it; we shall link into insignificance and adversity if we do not.

—Sir John A. Macdonald
Pierre Elliott Trudeau

Perspectives

Fewer folks have a tendency of becoming maddled, and I suppose this one, my reply for Dayton Valley, will be no exception.

The past year has been a year of growth, both professionally and personally. And I really mean it when I say I am going to miss Dayton Valley.

I believe the most important aspect of any reporter's job is to be able to build trust with his or her contacts. With a number of people I dealt with, that confidence was there, and I thank them. Without trust, no stories which needed to be written would have been published.

On my last day, Dayton Valley is a minuscule black dot to the west of Edmonton, but therein lies the hope, the future, the aspirations and dreams of 5,000 people. My job over the past year has been to help them see the major, and sometimes minor, events. I hope I have done justice.

My thanks to all of my contacts who helped me get information. And last but not least, thank to my cohorts at the Western Review. You have made all the difference.

—Jenna Craighead

Letters to Review

'Thoroughly disgusted' with ayoffs

Mr. Editor: When I returned to my home town I was thoroughly disgusted with the events that have transpired over the last few weeks. The dismissal of nine public works employees is absolutely absurd.

From a humanistic point of view all the concepts of justice, righteousness and fairness were totally nonexistent in this matter.

Values that most of us deem as highly important are not part of the Dayton Valley administration's quality. To fire nine people with no warning, no proven or valid reasons, no previous reprimands for ineffectiveness is horrendously inhumane.

Experienced human and machine operators were treated with no respect after spending a total of approximately 30 years serving the town of Dayton Valley.

If the town management had justification to abolish these jobs, they should have had the common decency to present the most with the facts and figures that might prove the strategy to be valid.

It is beyond me how men with 22, 31 and 35 years of experience could be treated in this manner.

What has happened to our town? We have been in this town for 30 years. It has turned out to be an angry town, with leadership that causes more grief, problems and sorrow to our town residents.

We have lived here since 1956, and never in all these years have we found as many problems as we have in the last six months. It is one thing after another.

Why? Is it because the engineers have the wrong instructions or ordered the wrong materials? And in the first place, why are there so many engineers in a small town that is going broke?

I measure my life and my family and I want someone who knows what he is doing when he puts stuff in the water to make it safe to drink, such as Shell Mer-sal, with all his years of experience with water works. With someone with next to no experience, how safe do you feel when you drink water anymore?

Also any contracting firm has to realize a substantial profit or they would not venture into the contracted agreement while the town that worked for the town did so for a reasonable salary. I can't believe that the town administration expect the people of Dayton Valley to do this contracting project without presenting any type of feasibility studies.

Dear Editor: We are speaking as concerned citizens in relation to the Black Gold Inn Coffee Shop.

On several occasions, we have gone there for coffee or a quick lunch between the school hours. We have received less than courteous service or have been ignored completely.

When it comes to the cheque, they have been wrong; we were over charged, double charged, and a few times, even charged for the cream and sugar that is free to other customers.

We were told where to sit to have coffee, and where to sit to have lunch—but that is not the real problem. It is the fact that we have been told when to leave even when there were no other customers to take their place. This has not only happened once, but several times.

When it comes to the cheque, they have been wrong; we were over charged, double charged, and a few times, even charged for the cream and sugar that is free to other customers.

As far as we are concerned, are the payers customers and deserve the proper service that they are given.

Dear Editor: I'd like to address this letter to the taxpayers of Dayton Valley. Have you ever heard of a public financial statement? The council says that because of the reason for this drastic move they made of abolishing 10 positions. Why these particular positions? Why did they hit the maintenance department? Why did they look at some figures and say they were justified or where they maybe should be making more money?

Fracmaster group joins ESA

By Rick Chelard
A group of service and supply firms from the Calgary area is planning to join the Energy Services Association of Alberta which should boost the membership of the ESA by over 100 businesses.

led by Bob Bullen, president of Canadian Frac-master Ltd., an informal group of Canadian-owned service and supply firms was formed last month to lobby the provincial and federal governments for a settlement of the oil dispute.

One hundred and thirty people from the ad hoc group travelled to Edmonton on May 13 to talk to provincial energy officials, then boarded a plane headed for Ottawa, Canada, where they talked to politicians on the federal and Ontario provincial governments.

Members of the Calgary area group will meet with Bill Hall, chairman of the Red Deer chapter of the ESA, and Bob Byram, president of the ESA, while the next few weeks to merge the companies with the Energy Services Association, which was formed last November to protest the National Energy Program.

The Energy Services Association, which has chapters in Drayton Valley, Red Deer and Whitecourt, is still compiling survey reports on the downturn of business activity.

With the spring break-up over, "things have picked up a little bit," says Bob

Bocher, vice-president of the ESA. "We're probably going at a little better than last year."

However, he added, work in the service and supply industry is still on a day-to-day basis rather than lined up days or weeks ahead as in previous years.

There are still local firms for possible opportunities, says Mr. Bocher. But Byram, the president of the ESA, is based currently in Kansas establishing a wing of his company.

Asked if there were more hopes in the ESA make as a result of meetings between federal and provincial energy officials and recent changes announced in the national energy program, Mr. Bocher said there have been some positive changes as far as oil activity on Canadian lands is concerned, but no major changes for provincial lands or conventional oil production.

He predicted "just another spring season" for the June 10 meeting between provincial energy minister Mary Leland and federal energy minister Marc Lalonde in Ottawa.

Major changes are needed to raise the price and setback for oil producers and something must be done to change the eight per cent federal tax on oil and gas production, Mr. Bocher said.

The latest provincial cut-back—another 50,000 barrels a day on June 1—will hurt the business of local service and supply firms, he said, but it won't be as bad here as in some areas of northern Alberta. The cut-back only applies to Crested Butte, which accounts much of the Pembina Cardium field, but includes all of the West Pembina field.

On average in the last 30 to 40 days active in the area on any given day.

On May 30, 43 drilling rigs were active which compares to an average of 60 rigs in May of 1979.

Mr. Kaller predicts an average of 45 to 50 drilling rigs will be active in the area for the rest of the year.

Rob Kaller, area supervisor for the local office of the Energy Insurance Conservation Board, said recently that drilling in the area has picked up a little bit, mainly due to Canfield Oil Company's drilling program in the Black Lake region.

Drilling activity in the area covered by the local ERCB office peaked in December and January when close to 100 rigs were active.

House fire causes damage

A serious mistake was the reason behind a house fire in Drayton Valley last Saturday night, which caused an estimated $6,000 to $8,000 damage.

Flames were contained in the utility room, and the fire was under control within 10 minutes, but heat and smoke caused damage throughout the house.

Gasoline shouldn't have been used to clean paint brushes, and combustible liquids shouldn't have been put in a room where there was an open flame, said Chief Poon.

The major mistake was using gasoline instead of the proper materials which are on the market," he added.

WRAPPING UP HIS steer, a cowboy finishes his competition at last year's Evergreen Rodeo, hosted by the Drayton Valley Lions Club. The rodeo this year promises to be bigger and better than ever, with larger stunts and more events. The rodeo starts on Saturday afternoon and continues through to Sunday evening. A midway at the rodeo grounds and a fly-in at the Drayton Valley airport are just two of the added attractions that make Drayton Valley the place to be this Rodeo Weekend.

Labor board to rule on complaint by workers

If the Labor Relations Board finds a complaint filed against the Town of Drayton Valley is justified, then the employees could be reinstated in their jobs with full back pay, according to an official of the Labor Relations Board.

A complaint was filed with the board May 29 claiming the Town had unfair labor practices in letting go 10 employees while the workers were in the process of forming a union.

The complaint is being processed, said Dennis Dylowski, acting registrar for the Labor Relations Board on Monday. "If we feel an investigation is warranted, an officer will be appointed."

The officer would then investigate the complaint and try to settle the dispute. If that fails, the Labor Relations Board would hold a public hearing to hear both sides of the case, either in Edmonton or in Drayton Valley.

The complaint of unfair labor practices should not affect the local workers' move to seek union certification with CUPE, said Mr. Dylowski.

As investigation by the board on the request for certification is completed and was mailed to both parties last week. If no objections are filed by either the town or the employees to the report, then certification would proceed without a hearing.

If the town does object, then the Labor Relations Board would hold a hearing on the request for certification.

Following certification, the town and the union would have to negotiate a settlement, in which case the union might raise the issue of letting go 10 employees as part of the bargaining contract. Whether the complaint of unfair labor practices will be investigated or not should be known this week, said Mr. Dylowski.

Fas Gas appeals

A local rancher will appeal a municipal planning commission (MPC) ruling disallowing a development permit for the construction of a gasoline outlet at the corner of 59 Ave. and 59 St.

Jim Ketchum, acting on behalf of Fas Gas Realty of Red Deer, will appeal the decision before the development appeal board at a hearing on June 16.

The proposed location, across the street from Mayhew Motors, was turned down because the lot is "inadequate in respect to traffic flow within the site for cars and tank trucks," the MPC ruling stated.

The appeal will be heard in council chambers beginning at 6:30 p.m. June 16.

THE NEW MOBIUS ON building in Poplar Ridge is nearing completion and should be occupied by the end of next week. The structure, located behind the existing Amos building, will house executive and secretarial offices, and will replace some of the overworking of the old building. The existing building will be renovated to match the exterior of the new addition.

Duffield student is chief for a day

A Grade 3 student from Duffield School became police chief of the County of Parkland last Friday as part of a contest held during Police Week, May 18 to 24.

Police Chief of Duffield School was police chief last Friday in the County of Parkland police headquarters in Stony Plain. He sat in the police chief's chair and inspected the officers as part of his one day duties.

In another contest, three area students received a north award and tickets to a Driller soccer game last week following a drawing contest open to all County of Parkland schools during Police Week.

Local winners were Clinton Eastman, a student in Grade 3 at the Tomahawk School, Kathy Dunning, Grade 4 of Vella Beach School, and Melaine Thomas, Grade 5 of Estevan School.

They were given last Wednesday to the students by Constable G. Gilster of the Parkland police detachment. Chairman of the county police commission, Ernie Scheldeman, judged the entries in the drawing contest.

IT TAKES A LOT TO EARN THIS PIN DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE WHO HAS WHAT IT TAKES?

If you know a young Albertan, or group of young Albertans who have earned this kind of honour, we'd like to know too! In fact, we'd like all of Alberta to know. We need the names of young people between the ages of fifteen and eighteen who, through their selflessness, initiative and responsibility have contributed to their community.

In 1981, as in every year for the past 10, Alberta's investment in its youth, will honour these young Albertans with the title "Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year".

To nominate someone who has earned this pin, complete and send the nomination form below to the editor of this newspaper.

Abattoir planned

Construction of a provincial class 'A' abattoir in Breton should be under way by the end of this month, with completion of the $400,000 project expected by the end of the summer.

Walter Albers, owner of the abattoir, says he wrote the building to be finished by the end of the summer, in order to take advantage of the fall kill of hogs and cattle.

Located one half mile west of Breton and on half mile north of Secondary Road 66, the 3,300 square foot facility will occupy about 20 acres, Mr. Albers says.

That is only the building itself; the pens for the animals will take up quite a bit more room," Mr. Albers notes.

Built with the assistance of grants from the federal government and a loan from the Alberta Opportunity Corporation, the abattoir, when completed, will process the jobs, and will process about 80 head of hogs and cattle per day, Mr. Albers says.

"We will be doing custom cutting for farmers, as well as wholesale and retail butchering," Mr. Albers notes. The abattoir will also be capable of smoking and curing meats and sausages.

Genesee hearings postponed

and how can the people affected comment on it?" Stamski said.

The president of the Genesee Agricultural Centre, it was an update of plans, and showed exactly where we are in the project," Pettican told The Representative.

Edmonton Power's planning stages are governed by legislation, as the project must meet about 15 provincial acts, he said.

"When the project was approved, it was on the condition that by Oct. 1 of this year we have a specific mining plan... Before we actually start digging, that plan will be available or we won't be allowed to proceed," Pettican said.

The development permit is needed now in order for Edmonton Power to begin construction of the plant.

The adjustment of the permit hearing Friday was dubbed "a small victory" by Brian Stamski of NWPS.

"June 15 we will come back again and request a further adjustment. We'll continue until we get the specific information we're requested about the mining and the environmental effects," he said.

Brian Stamski of NWPS agreed that further notification of Genesee residents about the hearing was in March.

"We had a public hearing at the Genesee Agricultural Centre, it was an update of plans, and showed exactly where we are in the project," Pettican told The Representative.

Edmonton Power's planning stages are governed by legislation, as the project must meet about 15 provincial acts, he said.

"When the project was approved, it was on the condition that by Oct. 1 of this year we have a specific mining plan... Before we actually start digging, that plan will be available or we won't be allowed to proceed," Pettican said.

The development permit is needed now in order for Edmonton Power to begin construction of the plant.

The adjustment of the permit hearing Friday was dubbed "a small victory" by Brian Stamski of NWPS.

"June 15 we will come back again and request a further adjustment. We'll continue until we get the specific information we're requested about the mining and the environmental effects," he said.

Brian Stamski of NWPS agreed that further notification of Genesee residents about the hearing was in March.

Council abandons battle against caterpillars

That caterpillars should have a field day in Drayton Valley this year.

At last week's regular council meeting, councilors decided to not spray the young caterpillars in town property, and Drayton Valley residents will have to fight the battle on their own.

Councilor Alex Ball noted that, based on experience last year, fighting the leaf eaters is a lost cause, as they tend to move too fast for spray killing.

"We can spray in town, but if we don't do any spraying in the surrounding areas, they will move right in, and we won't be able to stop them," councilor Ball said.

Last year, the towns sprayed trees on boulevard as a rate of $6 per tree and attached park areas at a total cost of over $1,000 per spraying. This year, the figure would be quite a bit higher, according to a recommendation from town.

still.

However, council budgeted their decision a bit, and decided that if a particular area (like heavily infested) the town will spray on an emergency basis.

Perhaps if the infestation got particularly bad in West Valley Park, we could consider bringing a request to council for emergency spraying, but that is the only area we would consider," councilor Ball said.

how to fight the battle against caterpillars on their own, with the best chance being a strong offense.

Malikien should be sprayed on trees in the early spring, to catch the caterpillars at the larval stage, and after that, the chemical should be painted around the base of the tree trunk, according to Alberta department of agriculture officials. Malikien is available in liquid and crystal forms at hardware and home and garden stores.

Dave Souther
Owner & Manager

Dave Souther, manager and owner of Fountain Tire in Drayton Valley, has been with the company since 1956, when it took over Valley Tire Services. Mr. Souther had been manager of Valley Tire for two years prior to the takeover. In 1978, he acquired 80 per cent of the business, and three years later owned 100 per cent. Mr. Souther is married and has 6 children and is an active member of the Drayton Valley golf club, and is also active in curling.

Fountain Tire
Drayton Valley

From a single tire store, opened in Watervale in June, 1956 by two brothers, Bill and Jack Fountain, The Company has grown to a multi-million dollar corporation.

This wholly Alberta-owned organization consists of more than 30 operations engaged in various business endeavors.

The basic industry of the group remains tire products, which are distributed by two wholesale Astro Tire companies, supported by some 20 Fountain Tire retail stores, 4 associate dealer stores and a remanufacturing facility.

The Watervale store had gross sales of approximately $30,000 in its first year. The 25 year interval since its inception has been a period of steady growth, with group sales at the current year predicted to exceed $30 million.

The head office of the organization was moved in April, 1980 to new facilities at 8801 24th St., in Sherwood Industrial Estates.

The new premises house, in addition to head office, the main Astro Tire warehouse and operations of two associates: Modern Tire Supply and Astro Computer Services.

Bill Fountain established a tire store in Port St. John in 1939, as well as one in Whitehorse. In 1962, he relocated in Edmonton and established Dunsmuir Distributors Ltd., the former member of the present company. Astro Tire Distributors of Alberta Ltd.

Meanwhile, Bill and Jack had expanded the Watervale operation to include locations in Provost, Two Hills and Viking, the latter still owned and operated by Jack. In 1965, the Lloydminster operation was acquired.

The Dunsmuir operation relocated in 1964 to a new building which has since become the revised division for the organization.

Bill sold four other business associates from across Canada formed the Astro Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Ltd. in 1967.

This private Canadian company, with warehouse and offices in Toronto, arranged for production of Astro Tire products built to its rigid specifications by major rubber company manufacturers.

The retail operation in Alberta was expanded by the acquisition of the Centre Tire and Rubber Company in 1968, providing retail representation in Camrose, Drayton Valley, Hinton and Valleyview.

Ten additional retail tire stores were added in the interval 1968 to 1976.

An associated dealer program was instituted in 1976, providing all the advantages of the Fountain Tire Store program while allowing the owner to maintain his own identity.

Four operations now enjoy the success. These are: St. Paul Tire and Newell Tire & Supply, Ponoka.

The organization suffered a slight dip in 1976 with the death of Bill Fountain in an automobile accident.

The managing director of the organization now consists of Lloyd Hargrave, Harold Greenwood, Dennis Irving and Kim Kile.

From the original staff of Bill and Jack, in Watervale in 1956, the group has grown to its present strength of 250 employees.

The group operates solely within the confines of the province of Alberta and its wholesale Astro Tire divisions supply over 400 independent tire dealers and service stations throughout the province under direction of the sales manager, Ray Charter.

Athabasca U leader in Telidon

"Telidon has the potential of becoming the most influential communications tool since the development of television," states Bob Abell, co-ordinator of Athabasca University's Telidon project. "It's therefore important for educators to get involved."

"Telidon is the Canadian videotext system developed by the department of Communications. Videotext systems link home television sets through the telephone to central computers, allowing home users both to receive and send information employing text and color graphic images."

Using Athabasca University's computer, Mr. Abell has developed a system that allows persons with the "Telidon decoder to phone in and 'talk' to the computer."

"The university will be able to carry on a very sophisticated 'conversation' with the computer."

"Educators are just beginning to recognize the potential of 'Telidon,'" states Mr. Abell. "With a new technical development, like Telidon, business and recreation interests tend to predominate. As educators, we can't afford to let this opportunity pass us by."

"Given the right kind of development over the next decade, everyone with a color television set could have access to a full range of educational courses and programs, from kindergarten to university right in their own homes."

HAS office offers variety

By Shelley Lytle

Are you an eager student looking for work? Do you run a business and need summer relief? Are you a housewife seeking a little extra help around the house or yard? If you answered yes to any of the above questions you are in luck. Hire-A-Student can help!

Hire-A-Student is a non-profit community service that helps co-ordinate summer employment needs of both the students and employers. The major part of the HAS program is a referral service. Students register with HAS and employers contact us requesting a student with specific skills. The HAS office refers students and the employer does the interviewing and hiring.

So far this year 110 students have registered with Hire-A-Student. Any student can register with Hire-A-Student as long as he/she is at least 12 years of age and will be returning to school the following year.

A wide variety of job orders are expected to come into the HAS office so far 27 job orders have been taken. The jobs that have come in have been traditionally to:

male type jobs such as babysitting and store clerking. Hopefully as summer draws nearer, outdoor manual labor type jobs will come in which will interest the males.

A majority of the students registered are under 18 and often this age group has a difficult time finding summer work. The Hire-A-Student office will be running an "odd job" squad which will consist of the younger students being organized to do odd jobs. Odd jobs such as lawn mowing, window washing, weeding gardens, babysitting, house cleaning, or yard clean-up are all to be done by capable students on the odd job squad.

Students can come down and register at the office which is located in Room 301 of the Credit Union building. Employees can come down to the office as well or phone. The Hire-A-Student telephone number is 542-5805. The office is open Monday to Friday 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. until June 30 and then 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. from July 2 to August 7.

Have a young summer!

Citizen awards nominations open

They're selfless, courageous individuals or groups, showing initiative, responsibility and leadership beyond their years.

They're the Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year. You can have a part in honoring young Albertans with such an award for their accomplishments.

If you know a special young Albertan, or group of young Albertans, between the ages of six and 18, we want to tell all of Alberta about them. The deadline for nominations for the Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year Awards is June 30.

For 19 years, Alberta's investor-owned electric utilities have co-sponsored the Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year Awards. In conjunction with the Alberta Writers' Newspaper's Association, youngsters who have helped their families in troubled times, those who have saved the lives of others while endangering their own, those who have overcome physical handicaps while establishing their spirit, and those who participate in volunteer projects in their communities are among the candidates for the awards.

Several former Junior Citizens Award winners have gone on to become opinion leaders in their communities, helping others, informing their neighbors about dealing with handicaps, and staying involved in community life. They have received good citizens, as evidenced by reports in weekly newspapers across the province.

The deadline for nominating a special young Albertan to be honored by the Alberta Junior Citizens of the Year Award is June 30. Judges, co-sponsors Frank Lynch-Staunton will present winners with their awards at a luncheon September 18 at the Palliser Hotel in Calgary.

After June 18, the office will move to St. Albert, and a telephone number for public enquiries will be announced.

Federal program helps rural Albertans

A federal government program launched May 20 in Montreal will help to pay up to $1,000 Alberta businesses and households to convert half the cost of converting to natural gas, wood, coal, propane, solar or some other renewable source of energy.

COSEP grants are also available for heating systems that supplement, but do not completely replace, furnaces—for example, a wood stove that supplies at least 10 per cent of a building's heat, or a solar collector that supplies at least one-third of a building's heating needs.

About 20 million dollars of heating aid were committed in Alberta in 1980, mainly in small communities where access to natural gas is limited or where it is more expensive.

In remote communities like Fort Chipewyan, oil is used by the majority of households.

However, many people closer to urban centres are also dependent on oil for home and business heating. In cases where natural gas is available, the COSEP grant can help with the high cost of hooking up to the utility, comments COSEP regional director John May.

"Where natural gas is not available, renewable fuels, or in some cases propane, offer viable alternatives or supplements to oil."

COSEP is a key element in the federal government's National Energy Program, under which Canadian consumption of oil will be reduced to 10 per cent of total energy needs by 1990.

Under the program, oil consumption will be reduced by more than half from the current 60,000 to 30,000 barrels per day.

For information about the COSEP program, contact Alberta's National Energy Program, 10150, 100 St., 4th Floor, Edmonton, Alta. T6G 0P4.

The emphasis in the field trial will be on assessing the usefulness of Talcott as an educational tool and also in fostering the cooperative use of this kind of learning says Mr. Black. ## Keep cool this summer with a fan

By Paul Miller
Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada

Why not cool your home with a fan this summer? Air conditioners have long been popular, but with the energy crunch upon us they should soon be out of the window. After all, why spend all that time, energy and money making your home energy-efficient in winter, and then just throw away your savings by turning on the old air conditioner in summer? With lighter homes and improved insulation in these homes, it makes good sense to use the good old fan as a source of comfort during summer.

For best results, close doors and windows early in the day, just as the temperature begins to rise. Close blinds or drapes on south or west-facing windows; this reduces the heat gain. Then turn on one or two fans depending on the size of your home, and keep the air moving and fresh. This should keep you cool and comfortable until evening when temperatures tend to drop. When they do, place a fan in the window of a room you don't plan on using. Then open windows and doors of rooms being used. The fan should be positioned to blow the hot air out. Cooler outside air will then come in through the other open windows to replace the air being exhausted.

Remember to close all the other windows in the room or hallway where you locate the fan. Otherwise, you may set up a cross current in that room only and you'd prevent the rest of your house from cooling effectively.

If your house is a two-story or multilevel, you might try closing off each level and setting up a fan system on each level. Although it really isn't complicated, it really isn't. And these dollars saved—you can go out and buy yourself a nice comfy lounge and take in your back yard for the rest of the summer.

ADC will lend $165 million

The Agricultural Development Corporation (ADC) lent $10.8 million to 960 farmers in the first three quarters of the present fiscal year which ended on March 31.

A crown corporation with its head office in Edmonton, ADC provides long-term mortgage financing to Alberta farmers.

In the case of an individual who has only minimal experience in farming, unknown credit standing ability (due usually to the young age of beginning farmers) and who would not be adequately secured by other lenders' standards, this time-around time is considered very reasonable. ADC provides up to 100 per cent of the financing for land and chattels over the full term of the loan in some instances.

At present ADC has more than $273.3 million outstanding to over 6,100 farmers or approximately 39 per cent of all the farmers in Alberta. It is expected that $185 million will be lent this fiscal year, which will establish ADC as a major influence in farm mortgage lending in Alberta. ADC receives its funding from the Alberta Heritage Savings and Trust Fund.

Crimes of opportunity?

By Corporal Tim Farmer
What does the old saying, "A lock is only for an honest man" mean to you? Think about that as you read on.

During my years as a policeman, I have investigated hundreds of crimes involving house breakings, auto thefts, thefts of bikes and thefts of property from outbuildings.

It just might surprise you to know that at least 90 per cent of these thefts occurred when the culprit had the doors or a window open or the keys in the ignition or the property was just lying out in the yard.

I can't count the number of times when we have apprehended the culprit; and in interviewing them, they've answered the question, "Why did you do it?" by answers similar to, "We tried the door and it was open so we decided to go in," or "I noticed the window was open so I thought I would go in and look around," or "We were just walking along looking in the parked car when we saw this one with the keys in it so we thought we would take it for a ride."

I could go on and on but by now you can see that they have one thing in common and that is, the opportunity was there so the crime happened. Some of you may object by saying, "Well, if I lock it up, they will just smash a window, break the lock, or damage the door."

I will grant you this, that if they really want it or are really intent on getting it, they will. However, that only takes in about 10 per

Pedestrians must remember safety

Albertans are well known for their gambling spirit and willingness to take a venture, and as long as the odds are reasonable, even, or the prize large enough, many will be found taking a chance. The lower in every case is the 150-pound pedestrian who gambles with 8,000 pounds of steel, rubber and glass.

When a car hits a car, it results in personal injury or death in only one case out of four or five. But when a car hits a pedestrian, there is a personal injury or death in almost every case.

The Alberta Safety Council reports that, in Alberta, 77 pedestrians lost their lives during 1980-80 of these being male and 27 female. Statistics would indicate that the most dangerous age group for male pedestrians is from 15 to 25. Fifteen males compared to four females were killed in this age group. For females, the most dangerous age group would appear to be 71 to 80 where nine females died, compared to three males.

The Safety Council for-

Crude oil imports cost Canada $40,000 per hour

Canada is subsidizing the cost of imported crude oil today at the rate of $40,000 per hour. The Canadian taxpayer will pay for this incredible hourly addition to our national debt for dethe total cost of our crude oil imports, including the portion being subsidized, is $716,000 per hour. Said another way, that is the hourly contribution of our crude oil imports bill to our current account trade deficit.

It is staggering to estimate the magnitude of this cost by 1980, by which time Canada will be importing much greater volume of oil. If the budget and NEP provisions are not changed, it would be a very high price.

The Recipe Corner

by Wendy Thomson

This week I've got more low-calorie recipes plus one to splurge on.

Marketed Mushrooms

Low-Calorie
Ingredients: 1/2 pound small mushrooms; 1 cup dry white wine; 2 Tbsp. butter; 2 Tbsp. salad oil; 1 medium onion sliced into "petals"; 2 or 3 green onions cut into 1" pieces; 2 Tbsp. lemon juice; 1 tsp. salt; 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce; meat 1/2 cup. Tabasco sauce.

Combine everything except the mushrooms and bring to a boil. Add mushrooms, cover and simmer 8 minutes.

Let cool, refrigerate. Will keep several days.

Low-Calorie
At the Farmers' Market, pick out large mushrooms that will make a fairly large "boat" with the stems removed.

Ingredients: 8 large mushrooms; 1/2 cup cottage cheese; 1/4 Tbsp. lemon juice; 1/4 Tbsp. salt; 1/4 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce; meat 1/2 cup. Tabasco sauce.

Chop the stems fine and mix with remaining ingredients (except the parsley). Stuff caps, garnish with parsley and chili.

Note: These may be served chilled, but I prefer them hot. Place under the broiler just until heated through.

Each mushroom is less than 50 calories each.

Hot and Lettuce Salad

Low-Calorie
Ingredients: 1/2 head of lettuce, broken into pieces; 2 medium apples, peeled and sliced; 1 Tbsp. lemon juice; 1 cup dried celery, 6 ounces cooked ham, sliced; 2 Tbsp. salad oil; 2 Tbsp. vinegar; 1 tsp. chopped fresh dill.

Mix apples with lemon juice in a large bowl and let stand five minutes. Add lettuce, ham and celery. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over lettuce. Serves two to four.

Orange Spaghetti Sauce

Low-Calorie
Ingredients: 6 eggs, arranged; 1 1/2 cups sugar; 1 tsp. grated orange rind; 1 Tbsp. lemon juice; 1/2 cup brown concentrated orange juice plus enough water to make 1 1/2 cups; 1/4 cup flour; 1/4 cup baking powder; 1/4 cup oil; 1/4 cup cream of tartar.

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Beat yolk until frothy at high speed. On medium speed, add sugar gradually. Stir flour, baking powder and salt. On low speed, add these, alternating with orange and lemon juice. Stir orange juice.

Wash beaters well and beat egg whites with cream of tartar until very stiff. Carefully fold batter into egg whites. Pour into large ungreased angel food pan and bake 50 minutes to one hour.

Invert pan and let cool. Loosen cake with sharp knife and remove. Prunes for under sitting.

Makes 18 slices of 140 calories each.

Orange Glaze

Combine 1 cup icing sugar; 1/4 cup lemon juice; 2 Tbsp. concentrated orange juice; 1 tsp. grated orange rind; 1/4 tsp. grated lemon rind; pinch salt.

Drizzle over cake. Add about 30 calories per slice.

MLA Report

Program changes assist seniors

By Shirley Crisp, MLA
June brings rain, flowers, graduation, 4th anniversary and satisfaction of summer holidays.

I had the pleasure of attending some of these special days in the past week.

On May 30, ceremonies were held in Drayton to officially open their senior citizens self-contained unit. This is a proud achievement for Drayton and surrounding districts. All the volunteer hours, letters and hard work are well rewarded on these special days.

The residents of Spruce View Court have a lovely home. I wish them many years of health and happiness in their new home. On June 1 I had the opportunity to attend the 4th Graduation Day at Drayton Valley. The three clubs involved were quite working under the leadership of cramped space due to inclement weather, but showed their calves like true veterans.

I was impressed with the quality of the show; the calves were well groomed and the showmanship was superb. Each club was awarded a distinctive matching shirt which really added to the show.

changes in programs available to surviving spouses 60 to 64 years of age.

The first change which has been made is to the Alberta Pensioners' Repair Program, which provides up to $1,000 to assist in home repairs. The qualifying maximum income is now $15,500 per year, after deduction. In addition, if you are 60 to 64, and your spouse would have been 65 this year, you can qualify. New brochures including these two improvements will be sent to banks. Treasury Branches, participating credit unions, and seniors' shops in Drayton. If you can't find one, call 542-5380 collect in Drayton.

MLA Shirley Crisp

I am sure there were some mixed feelings during the sale as it was evident that some of the 400 had spent a lot of time working with their calves.

On June 5 I had the privilege of attending the 4th Graduation Day at Drayton Valley. This was especially meaningful as my oldest daughter was among the graduates. When attending the various graduations, I am proud of the seniors to whose hands we have the future.

I like their confidence, their courage, their vitality, and their optimism. I know they will meet future challenges with integrity, responsibility and cheerfulness. They of luck to each and every 1981 graduate. Especially for Seniors I have been able to obtain some information regarding tion, and ask for a Pensioners' Repair Program application form.

Amendments proposed to the senior citizens property owner tax rebate will increase from $400 to $600, and, if you are 60 to 64, and your spouse was eligible while alive, you will be eligible. This program is administered by the provision through the municipal office.

Changes to the senior citizens' Rental Assistance Grant will mean that if you are 60 to 64, and your spouse was eligible at the time of death, you will be eligible. Application forms for this grant are available through municipal offices, Alberta Municipal Affairs Office, and Treasury Branches.

Edmonton at 427-5352. If you have any trouble reading brochures or for this information, please let me know, and I will make sure that you get the information. Please contact me in the future if I can be of any further assistance.

I'll be back in my office at Drayton Valley starting June 8. The new location is next to Fraser Auto Supply on 50th St.

Chemical dependencies in industry

AADAC Answers by Bob Turner 542-5669

This is the third article in a series dealing with chemical dependencies in industry.

In the last article dealing with chemical dependencies in industry, employees assistance programs were introduced. The following statements are a basic policy regarding drugs. The company recognizes that drug dependencies are treatable illnesses. It is the employer's responsibility to decide to undertake treatment; refusal to accept treatment will not be tolerated if the condition is causing sub-standard performance. The company will assist employees to obtain treatment for drug dependencies as any other illness. And finally, termination of employment may occur if work performance continues to be unsatisfactory. The employer's immediate supervisor is the key to a successful program. Since the supervisor is not a trained diagnostician, she or he is not expected to diagnose drug dependencies in employees. He or she is, however, expected to recognize work problems that may be associated with the use of drugs. Never cover up for the problem employee. If only compounds the problem. Take action only if the problem interferes with his or her work performance. The following are areas in which an employee may change his or her attitude or behavior, work performance, reliability, absenteeism, safety and physical appearance. Defects in one of these areas may not be indicative of a behavioral health problem, where as chronic difficulties in more than one of these areas would certainly suggest that the employee may be in need of assistance. No two cases are the same, therefore referral procedures are not always cut and dried. The employee may or may not admit to a problem. Even if he or she does, treatment may be rejected. The point is that the well informed manager is capable of recognizing potential problems early on and of making informed referrals. We appreciate your questions or comments on this or any other subject. The address of the Drayton Valley AADAC office is Box 1580, telephone 542-5669.

Tarsand clock is running out

Alberta Liberal leader Nick Taylor has warned that the Liberal government will not give the go-ahead for the Cold Lake and Alameda Road developments by autumn. "They may not be viable for at least another 30 years."

Quoting the fact that the Drayton group had to wait for over 30 years after signing a bid to establish a plant in compliance with Great Canadian Oil funds (later known) when they did not proceed in the late 1950s, Mr. Taylor claimed that many projects such as tar sands which are seeking approval, not only need government guarantees as to market, interest pollution that the tarsand projects are too expensive.

The Alberta Liberal leader, in launching his warning that the time clock was running out on Alberta, pointed out that given a choice between frontier reserves under the control of the province of Canada and tarsand plants under the control of an Alberta province, even a possible Liberal one, are likely to opt for the reserves as the frontier.

"I am terribly concerned from what rumors and inside information I have from the provincial sector, that Premier Lougheed and Mary

Lethbridge may be living in a bubble paradise where they think they have two sons up their sleeve in holding back tarsand development from the rest of Canada when in fact they have two jokers," contended Mr. Taylor.

TODAY & TOMORROW

In this column I am very pleased to announce that we have adopted two measures that will provide $17 million in support to the province's hog production sector.

The two programs are a new producer-occupied and operated hog raised rearing program and a restructive, ten-month contract to the Alberta Emergency Hog Rearing Program for Hogs.

The first measure is a voluntary, producer-occupied and operated hog raised rearing program for hogs. It will be designed and supervised by a committee composed of members of the Alberta Government.

In addition to the new hog raised rearing program, I am also pleased to announce the Alberta Emergency Hog Rearing Program will be expanded to include 30,000 hogs. It had been announced that the program will be expanded to include 30,000 hogs.

The total cost of the ten-month program, estimated at $17 million, will be borne by the Government of Alberta. The plan provided $17 million in support to the province's hog production sector.

A year ago I wrote of this program. I announced to the hog producers that the province would provide a $10 million loan to the hog producers to help them with their cash flow.

Once we approve the program, the first step will be to determine by the Hog Rearing Marketing Board. This level will be designed to be a voluntary program and it will be undertaken for cost of production.

The federal government, considers our hog-raising program "upgrading." Because of this we are not eligible to receive their stabilization program.

On July 12, Mr. Whelan said, "While I can appreciate the desire of producers to help their producers, in the long run — I hope we can give away total payment from the federal government. I have been increasingly concerned about the varying levels of provincial stabilization payments, and how they affect the competitive position of farmers in other provinces. The federal government must show leadership in providing an equitable national level of assistance."

With over-summer market returns, the cash-flow situation became critical and we were faced with a potential large loss in our hog production base.

Our answer is this program, a temporary, short-term measure to overcome a problem. In view of the recent hog payment schedule under the Canada Agriculture Stabilization Act (CASA) the committee has been set up.

For all this, I have yet to see any more from the federal government to implement an equitable national plan for hog stabilization.

On July 12, Mr. Whelan said, "While I can appreciate the desire of producers to help their producers, in the long run — I hope we can give away

Oilers dump Alexis

Dusty's homer helps

By Dale Leman
Gerald (Dusty) Dusterhoff's three run homer in the first inning gave the Drayton Valley Oilers a 4-0 lead and boosted them to a 17-4 win over Alexis in Offroad Baseball League action on June 4.

Dusterhoff lashed up his home run with steady pitching, as he allowed only three hits in his five innings on the mound for the Oilers. He also struck out five Alexis batters.

Dusterhoff's home run ball came with Alden and Ken Baird on the bases, and followed a run-scoring sacrifice fly by Rene Martin. The Oilers added single runs in the fifth and five more in the sixth to coast to the win. All told, the Oilers had 18 hits, while pitchers Dusterhoff and Randy Cox, who went to the mound in the sixth inning, allowed seven hits.

Ken Baird went three for four at the plate for the Oilers, with four RBIs, and was named MVP for the Oilers.

On June 2, the Oilers avenged an earlier 1-6 loss to Esquayed by dumping the Oilers 1-4, largely on the strength of home runs by Marie Baird, Dusterhoff and Zimmerman.

Baird's round-tripper came in the eighth inning and scored three runs, while Dusterhoff and Zimmerman hit back to back solo efforts in the ninth.

The Oilers managed to tag out pitcher Gerry Kruger for 10 hits, while Oiler batters Tim Zimmerman and Fred Martin allowed 12 hits.

In a game played in Alexis on May 22, the Oilers' batting power showed through, as 12-9-year-old Vally dumped the home team 22-2. The Oilers got two doubles and a single when left fielder Ken Pick and left shortstop Gerry Kruger hit back to back homers in the eighth inning.

The Oilers' next home game is Thursday (tomorrow), evening, when they take on the Esquayed Oilers. Game time at West Valley Park 6:37 p.m.

Ceasars forge win from apparent loss

By Dale Leman
The Drayton Valley Oilers rallied from a 3-1 deficit to steal a 2-2 victory from Westlock in Central Alberta Soccer League (CARS) action in Stoney Plains on Sunday.

The Oilers, playing on neutral ground in Stoney Plains because of the distance between Westlock and Drayton Valley, got three goals in the final 30 minutes of play to score the win, which leaves them with a record of five wins and one tie in CARS play this season.

The Oilers fell behind 1-0 early in the game, before playing coach Chris Kelly capitalized on a defensive error to tie the game.

Westlock went one up again early in the second half, and held a 2-1 lead until the 60 minute mark when Mike Little drove a Dunsen lower corner kick home to knot the score at two each.

"From there on in, we really went out there to win, but we had to change our tactics a little to overcome their defence, which was quite strong," Caesar spokesman Dave Beasley noted.

The Oilers went to a long ball attack, getting the ball in behind Westlock's defence, before the opposition had time to react.

"They were playing an offside trap against us, and that was the only way we could beat it," Beasley noted. Kelly scored what proved to be the winner when he took a shot from the corner and put it home, then added one more on a penalty shot a few minutes later.

Chris Duffy scored late in the match to ensure Drayton Valley's win.

Mike Little was named defensive player of the game for the second week in a row, while Beasley was awarded offensive player honors.

The Oilers travel to Stoney Plains again this weekend to play in a tournament, before returning home on June 21 for a game against on-CARS, and every Stoney Plains.

The game is being played as a "big one," according to Beasley, and will pit Drayton Valley's potent offense against the strong defense of Stoney Plains.

"They have a really strong defence, but I think we are able to beat them."

Pool Manager
 We welcome yet another summer of splashing fun at the Drayton Valley Swimming Pool.
 We are looking forward to a warm and sunny season in our freshly painted pool. Both diving boards are being given their spring overhaul and should be in use shortly.
 Our pool program is a busy one. We start with only kids in the swimming hours, then swim lessons and public swimming take place throughout the day. Adult/teen night swims bring the day to a close. A reminder for those still wishing to register for summer programs: the third week of June is not valid for swim lessons from August 5 to 14, but at the fourth week of June is reserved for lessons taking place August 17 to 23. Registrations are taken during the following outside hours: 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 to 9:30 p.m. Monday to Friday; 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday; and 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. on Sundays.

 A policy change regarding children bringing cheques or cash to pay for the registration fee has been made. Parents can now cash cheques and cash with their children. However, the staff will not be held responsible for lost cheques or change.

Parks gearing up for tourist season

This season, provincial park visitors can again call the Travel Alberta "Tour before You Go" numbers to check into occupancy, park and road conditions, fire hazards and special events before leaving home.
 The phone numbers are toll free 1-800-222-0501 for calls from within Alberta; 417-4281 from Edmonton; 1-800-661-0648 from Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario; and 118-000-461-0648 from British Columbia. The lines are open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.
 Provincial park officials are saying that enforcement of liquor law regulations will be increased this year in parks where liquor-related complaints were high last season.
 Liquor consumption is not allowed in day time activity areas (picnic, beach, boating or trail areas) of provincial parks, or in parks which are for day use only and offer no sleeping facilities.
 In some specified areas check stop programs will be utilized to reduce offences of impaired driving and make park areas safer places for vacation fun.
 Parkwatch, a joint provincial park, Parks Canada-Royal Canadian Mounted Police program designed to reduce vandalism, thefts and impaired driving, will continue in about 25 of the busiest provincial parks this year.
 Under the program, park visitors are encouraged to report acts of vandalism, keep an eye on neighbors' property when they are absent, and mark valuable belongings with special marking equipment.
 Two pilot projects have been continued this season. A self-registration program will allow park visitors to register themselves into campsites at Watrous Lake, Wychuan-Carleton Place, William A. Rutherford and Moonshine Lake Provincial Parks.
 A complete reservation service which began last summer at Watrous Lake Provincial Park has been expanded to include Bow Valley, the Whistler, Chipewyan, Little Bow, Young's Point and Jarvis Bay Provincial Parks. Applications are available at participating points.
 An inter-agency task force to check park trails will continue to allow boat operators to have their craft voluntarily inspected to ensure that the operators are familiar with boat safety regulations.

Changes made to draw system

By Ray Hunter
 The 1981 authorization draws have been published. To get application forms a hunter must contact any Fish and Wildlife office. At that time you can also get the summary of regulations for the 1981 hunting season.
 There are some important changes from the past years. It seems the idea of the draw system has been abandoned by more than just a few individuals.
 As a responsible sportsman it is your obligation to apply only for authorizations you intend to use.
 To help combat the problem of unused authorizations this year any one hunter may apply for only four of the eight which are available.
 Another change in the draw system this year is the deadline date for the applications. The dates for applications to be received are July 3 and 17.
 Note that the instructions say the applications must be received by the deadline dates, not posted by the date.
 The regulation governing OHV's has been clarified. An OHV is any vehicle designed to traverse terrain other than established and maintained roads. This year four-wheel drive vehicles licensed for highway use are not included in the definition of OHV Highway Vehicle.
 The hunting season is still quite a long way off but when the regulations come out I hope to get them straightened out of me as experience.
 For me the season opens August 19. That is the beginning of the archery season. If you plan to begin archery hunting now is the time to prepare. The local sporting goods store has some super equipment at super prices.
 In next week's article I am going to deal with hunting regulations which all hunters should know but very few do.

TAKING CAREFUL AIM, this student at Elementary II school sets up to try to throw the ball through a suspended line during that school's track and field day last week. Students took Tuesday off to compete in more traditional, and some not-so-traditional activities, including basketball shot put, softball throwing, monkey bar climbing, javelin throwing and metal chair hurdling. The day has become somewhat of a tradition at the elementary school, and offers a break for the students, who have yet to endure another couple of weeks of school.

Crocodile twist eases the pain

By Linda Glaser

The best exercises are those which are done slowly and gently. A quick jerky movement causes the muscles to contract in self-defence.

In yoga, there are two types, the stretch and hold type, and the slow continuous movement type.

The pelvic tilt is a stretch one which should be done daily. It helps to correct any back which leads to sagging lower back pain.

Begin lying on the back with the knees bent and the feet flat on the floor, then rotate the pelvis by raising the buttocks. The lower back should stay on the floor.

Crocodile exercises relax the lower back. They are often helpful for relief from lower back pain. Any serious discomfort should be checked by your doctor before you do any exercises.

There are over a dozen crocodile exercises. I am only including two of them.

The first is a big twisting exercise. Lie on the back with the arms out and the knees bent. Keep the hands on the floor. With the knees together, roll the legs to the right so that the outside of the right knee is toward the floor, and look to the left. Keep both shoulders on the floor. Return to the starting position, and repeat to the left side. The movement should be slow and continuous.

Another variation of the crocodile is done with the legs crossed. This time, begin as above, but cross the left leg over the right leg above the knee.

Roll the legs to the left side. Hold for at least one minute, then raise the knees, cross the right leg over the left and roll the knees to the right.

Since this is a very comfortable position, it can be held for as long as you wish. It can even be done in bed when sagging back pain is troubling you at sleep.

The latest status symbol is teeth

By Jeanne Ronger

I ran into an old friend just outside the coffee shop, the one staggering along with a huge smile.

"Going on a trip?" I asked.

"Oh no, I am just going to pay my dental bill," she said. "You know they won't take personal cheques and I have only $500 credit left on my Visa."

"You've been having trouble with your teeth?" I asked sympathetically as we went into the shop and ordered coffee.

"Oh no, it's just that I am getting all of my cups replaced with the latest," she said. "This tooth? It is a Royal Doulton china cup hand-painted by the very artist who is doing the statues of Lady Di. On the inside of my mug is a small number engraved. This way, should I have all my dishes torn off in a mugging and lose my mug and jewelry to boot, the mugger will only have to look in my mouth to see that I am of a quality worth saving."

"To a form of security?" I said.

"Oh yes, besides which besides the usual gold post, it has two of platinum so if there ever is a monetary collapse, I will have precious metals where no one can steal them."

She passed, then looked at my mouth. "I see you didn't carry very well," she said in sympathy.

"He does manage to keep my teeth fixed and I get to see the hygienist once a year," I said.

She shook her head in sympathy. "Well, for now perhaps that will do but if you ever come to the place where your teeth all must change, you'd do well to divorce the man and get one who can afford to keep his wife's mouth in style. Actually it is quite gross to go around with natural teeth nowadays."

"I don't know," I said. "With my looks, what sort of risk was I would want?"

She smiled. "A dentist," she replied. "Think of the good publicity he'd have if you wrote up a detailed account of how he restored your teeth, restoring you from a bum-drum life and giving you the thrill of the risk."

I must have looked a bit puzzled for she said, "You've never been to a proper dental boutique then?"

She said on the first visit they only place you in a small cubicle with soft music and the dentist's plaque, certificate and smiling trophies on display so you can meditate upon the virtues of your chosen dentist.

"Why selling trophies?" I asked.

"Do you know he is a dentist in a distantish way, not for the money," she said.

"Oh," I said, nodding at her smile. "If he doesn't need money why are his fees so high?"

"To keep the rift cut away," she said. "If they don't, the same thing will happen as has happened with operations and overseas travel."

"What happened there?" I asked curiously. I had surgery a few years back and a flight to England in 1979 and I enjoyed both as I was mighty curious.

"There used to be a time when you could check into a hospital and ask for a semi-private and get royal treatment," she said. "But nowadays changed all that. Why do you know the last time I went in for an operation, my roommate was on welfare and the lady in the private across the hall was a professional patient? She'd give up her apartment and stayed at the YWCA between operations."

"You'd think she'd run out of roommates," I remarked.

"Oh, she has many dear, but that's why she's doing so well. She is now affluent with what they call doctor-benefits."

"She has so many adhesions in her abdomen that they have to keep operating to free an organ or two, and each time they operate to correct one adhesion they rupture two more. You, she will probably spend the rest of her life getting free medical treatment at the taxpayer's expense."

"I guess the days when a surgical patient had to be rich or mortgaged the house. In those days we weren't forced to mix with rift-rail in the hospital."

"I felt uncomfortable, therefore, I changed the subject. The vacation trips you mentioned?"

"Yes, there was a time only the rich travelled. Now (Continued on page 85)

Frog takes prize in pet show

By LeOpal Laramie
285-3332

The kindergarten and Grade 1 classes held their annual pet show and parade on May 27.

About the biggest problem of the day was the disappointment of two and a half dozen of their small keepers and one that wouldn't come out of the car.

Leanne Dredler took first place for her frog and Mark Schwabauer took second.

For small dogs, Chris Porter was awarded first and Danny Tomshauer took second.

Darke Elder received first for her cat, The Graf second and Laura Zickel third. Crystal Scholten took a prize for the fastest, Michael Sagar for the wildest and the thickest for the slowest.

In the bird division Kelly Wilson received first for the Canary and Jason Miller second for his dogfish.

Kyle Stenstrom was awarded first for her large dog, Rascal, and Cory second for Picky.

Three rabbit entries were awarded prizes as follows:

Lee Madhew, first, Leanne Mann, second and Allyn Poirier, third.

Green Eyes Michael Foster got first for the kitten, Gus Chapchuk second and Roger Rivers, Kinky Duffy, Jean Reynolds and LeOpal Laramie.

The teachers, Shirley Shanks from kindergarten and Carol Houtsgroot from Grade 1, did a good job of organizing this annual event.

On June 12, everyone is invited to an open house at the West Pine Lodge in Winfield. They will celebrate their 25th anniversary. There will be coffee from 2 to 4 p.m., a buffet supper from 5 to 6:30 p.m. and of 120 the Bayers Road from Wetaskiwin will entertain.

The residents of the lodge invite everyone to come and view their home for a day.

The Grade 8 class from our school went to Calgary on a field trip on May 29 and 30. Twelve students went, with bus driver Linda Moody, teacher Anna Olson and chaperone LeOpal Laramie.

They visited the Calgary Zoo, Heritage Park and went swimming and roller skating.

Don and Bev Sigel, Ricky, Tommy and Collins narrowly escaped serious injury when they were in a collision with another vehicle on Highway 22.

Their truck and camper overturned, completely disabling the camper. Luck by the youngsters were not riding in the camper.

A large bridal shower took place in the Legion Hall on May 16 for Lori Weig and Doug McKean. There were about 50 women in attendance.

Decorations were in red and white. Assisting with the many small gifts was Lori's mother Edna and Doug's mother Conna. Recording of the show was done by Lori's sister Kelly.

Hosting the shower were Lyle Robinson, Mary Zolner, Mary Spoken, Anne Olson and Barb Stalove. Co-hostesses were Bev Madson and Pauline Zolner.

A beautiful lunch was served by these ladies.

A speedy recovery, is wished for Mike Scryphs who is a patient in the Drayton Valley hospital.

A baby boy was born to Trudy and Allyn Lee of Deer on May 17, weighing 7 pounds, 8 ounces. He has been named Wade Oliver.

Marie. After returning from the camper trip in the beginning of the week, they were off at the end of the week for a week's holiday at Creston, B.C., and visitors at the Balmshers.

Just prior to these happenings, Harry Barrett of Ocala, Sweden, was a visitor with the Arrall and Mrs. Gail Wrensch.

The Scotty here were their children, Doug, Brian, Ben, Sheila, Lorena and Donna Lillic of Ottawa, Ken Morton and Cindy Chynnes.

This team may be a bit late in coming but merited a recognition. The Haystack Trucking risk shipped by Donnie Haystack with Al Chynnes third, Ted Madsen second and Scotty Hare last, won the grand challenge.

For a prize of their choice they brought home power saws (two), Arctic sleeping bags and gas canisters as well as each receiving a large Chevrolet Construction trophy. Congratulations.

After spending many years in Sweden, they now plan to make their home in Canada, although Harry will still be employed overseas, working three weeks in ten (ten) weeks and then three weeks out. We welcome them back to Canada as well as a welcome to newcomers to our district.

The rain didn't dampen the spirit of a lot of people or stop the activities planned for the Alder Flats annual Fair, Meet and Barbecue. Despite the rain the show went on.

There were 27 entries in the parade, with the band dropping out at the last moment because of the weather.

Picking first in the foot section were the Cubs, second was Faith Bible Church and third went to the Physical Fitness Fair.

Ma Seely placed first in the horse section, second was Larry Janke with Debbie Watson receiving third.

Michelle Fitzgerald won first in the kids section, Stacey Elliott second and Annette Elliott third.

In the novelty division, first was Joanne Shanks, second Sharon Chappell, and third Charles Carriere. First in the off road category was Mark Madson.

second was Conna Graf, and third was Brad Dredler. Best theme entry was Mark Madson. Ma Seely second and Larry Janke third. To the three who judged by parade entry, Dave Robinson, Anna Olson and Pat Con, a thank you is extended.

Something new was added this year which proved to be successful and fun for the youngsters in the crowd. Lane Foundation supplied 10 sheep for a riding competition with all 10 of the riders receiving a silver dollar.

They were: Nicholas Hallgren, Pamela Proctor, Fred Oliver, Master Glenn, Jamie and Judy Seely, Jane Miller and John Seely.

This ride will be repeated next year but possibly managed a different way. Another fun thing was catching a grassed pig. Olivia Janke caught one by herself and received $10.

Students win Rotary music awards

By Margaret Sels
542-5423

Under the direction of Michael Krieger, the Elementary School girls took first place in the folk song category and the elementary boys took second. In select school, second place. This event took place at the Rotary Club Music Festival in Leduc recently.

Martin Rose, who is working for Karmark in Williams Lake, B.C., enjoyed a week's holiday with her parents, Jack and Anne Rose. The Rose's returned to Warburg to attend the Silver wedding anniversary of Jack's brother, Jim and Mary Smith. They also enjoyed some fishing while there.

Anne Rose and Johanna Lehman of Breton attended the Northwest Regional Hospital Conference in Whitecourt recently. Afterwards, Jack and Anne went on to Shagan Beach Lake for some good fishing.

Brian Smith was one of more than 50 friends, neighbors and relatives who gathered at the home of Sheila Greenough to help her celebrate her 90th birthday on May 25.

The Alberta Women's Institute held their annual provincial convention in Oda from May 25 to 28. Helen Smith was the delegate for the Warburg branch. She travelled with the Greenough delegation. In the handicraft competition Helen received two first prizes. Tilda Franger and Katie Stachek each received a second prize ribbon.

On May 24, the United Church School held their awards and promotion day and a closing picnic on the church grounds after school.

A good number of parents were on hand for the occasion. Teachers Kathy Ode and Betty Jo Wolfe presented certificates to all the kindergarten class and promotion certificates to Ryan Carstairs and Michael Sels. Shane Bunney received a prize for perfect attendance.

Bobbie Scott, Sophie Jackson and Karen Macdonald teach the primary class. Mr. John Porter presented certificates to all the students and promotion cards to Nicole Bunney, Michelle Diegan, Sean Giroux, James Finny and Jeff Sels. Awards were won by Brenda Walaska and Jason Finny. Nicole Finny had perfect attendance.

In the junior class, promotion certificates went to Albert Forster, Lynn Krieger, Edward Sels and John Wells. Lynn Krieger won the scholarship to Camp Mankapet and Edward Sels earned a scholarship for the boys. After the presentation student minister David Woodall led in games and races. Pat Walaska and none of the mothers had winners, ice cream and popcorn ready for all.

With assistance from the Lions Club, the Lions held a walkathon on May 24. Lions Haines, Whitford and Zola.

Nova Scotia offers fine canoeing

By Tony Stone

You'll need a Nova Scotia road map to find Gravelly Lake's canoeing route. The route is a series of small lakes and rivers in the north-eastern part of the province.

Once there though, Gravelly's 24.5 km of wilderness canoeing on the shores of Sandy Bottom Lake is about as pretty a spot as you'd want to see.

The park also serves as base of operations and jump-off point for visitors to the park of the Gravelly Lake Canoeing Club.

Most of Nova Scotia's main highways follow the coast linking towns and cities. Every so often there's a cross-country byway traversing the province from coast to coast with limited settlement along the way. The interior is sparsely settled woodlands which offers some of the finest wilderness canoeing in all of Canada.

Nova Scotia's Back of Beyond outfitting services schedule five guided canoe trips in the summer, and stipulate a group minimum of three and a maximum of 10. Trips start Aug. 1 and continue into mid-September. I arrived in June, all alone, and Gravelly was too busy to accompany me so the only alternative was to "hitchhike" it.

Canoeing by one's self is not new to me, and it remains a fascinating experience each time around.

Once I was fitted out with canoe and provisions with food, Gravelly, like the competent and experienced outfitter he is, proceeded to brief me on possible difficulties and outline a suggested route on the topographic map.

"There's a comfortable cabin on an island in First Branch Lake... it's about four to seven hours of time depending on the wind." He indicated the exact spot on the map and remarked, "It doesn't look like there's an entrance to First Branch Lake, just there is."

I paddled off and out through the narrows. The signs of maps were faintly reflected by a tricky spray of white water with the maelstrom shore and it required close attention to the map if the outlet at the opposite end of the lake was to be found and blind bays avoided.

The familiar localities and shortcuts that boost the solitary voyager in the wilderness were immediately sensed and enjoyed.

Channeled. The route proved to be a series of (un)congested lakes joined by narrow, winding, rock-strewn channels with a fairly strong current. Negotiating the channel was a nice change of pace from the shore cruising and island hopping during the lake crossings.

Past canoeing experience in Nova Scotia recall shallow rock-strewn lakes with what would appear to be glacial erratics either visible above or submerged just below the water line.

These lakes were no exception. It took a sharp eye to avoid striking the algae-covered submerged boulders and, in spite of my vigilance, the bow would rise up and I'd have to wriggle back off it was dark when I reached the end of Elbow Lake and began to cruise the marsh in search of the channel leading to First Branch Lake.

There appeared to be an inlet behind a rock garden that, according to the map, was the outlet of headwaters or the Marvey River but nothing leading through the marsh to First Branch Lake. I pulled ashore and scouted for foot through the beaver lay... nothing.

"It doesn't look like there's an entrance to First Branch Lake..." Gravelly had said, so I re-routed the inlet. I finally checked out what I had assumed to be the outlet of the Marvey River and to and behold the current was flowing in, not out. Five minutes later, after a brief paddle up the channel, I emerged at the south end of First Branch Lake.

The lovely little cabin came into view beneath a birch stand of white pine.

I dined on steak by the light of two oil lamps and a smoking wood stove and my second cup of coffee outside while listening to the wind blow softly in the lagoon. For readers who have had such an experience, I need say no more, for those who haven't, I can only say, "come try it as soon as possible."

Fishing. Nicholas had told me there were trout to be had further on up the lake but a stiff wind stayed in my teeth all the rest of the day so to restrict my efforts to my home I had to settle for an aquaculture of good-sized trout.

An osprey glinted down a short distance off shore, after taking the water with a spectacular splash. (Continued on page B11)

Graduate does well

Wynne Debus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Debus of Drayton Valley, and former graduate of Frank Macdonald High School, has just completed an extensive five-week military and musical tour throughout B.C. including Vancouver Island.

As pianist for a mixed vocal trio, Miss Debus has received achievement awards from Western Post-Colonial Bible College at Clayburn, B.C., each year for the last three years.

She plans to continue her studies to major in pastoral theology. Wayne Debus, her brother, graduated from the same college two years ago and is now youth pastor at the Abbotsford Pentecostal Assembly.

Nova Scotia offers fine canoeing

You'll need a Nova Scotia road map to find Grandville's Beachside Park Campground near South Hill, about 16 km east on Highway 9 from Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia.

Once there though, Grandville's 2.2 km of wilderness camping on the shores of, Sandy Bottom Lake, is about as pretty a spot as you'd want to see.

The park also serves as base of operations and jump-off point for Nicholson's Band of Natural Canoe Outfitters Inc.

Warburg news

(Continued from page B9) man joined with more than 30 young people in walking from the Warburg corner to Greenwood and back again.

Mayor Zolman had pledges totaling $35 per mile and within the distance. He found the first 20 miles not bad at all but the last eight miles were torture. The proceeds of the walkathon are earmarked for the new Aqueduct in Warburg.

News from Cloverleaf Manor reports that Wells Day and Mrs. King are no longer residing at the lodge. Mrs. Lucas is moving to a nursing home. Mrs. Lillemann is in the Leduc hospital.

Mr. Bafus brought a load of fertilizer for the flower beds. Hugo Goble and students Diamond Simpson and Adam Mudry are busy working on their and Bafus Owens puts a lot of time working with the trees on the grounds.

The ladies at the lodge are busy working on a bonded rug to be raffled at a later date. The Alliance Young People brought some entertainment on Friday evening.

Status symbol

(Continued from page B9) everyone goes on package tours. Why, the last time I went to Florida I actually had to travel with a construction worker on a diamond and a farmer." She chuckled.

Then she explained, "Oh yes, I was telling you what to expect at a good dental hospital."

"Yes, you got it for as he said, 'I'm telling you what to expect at a good dental hospital.'"

"Right. The first visit is basically like the first leg of a vacation trip used to be. Then they take pictures — he never says x-rays because that is a frightening word now. He calls them pictures. Isn't that classy?"

He went on to tell about the paleontologist, the piped-in music, the down-seat reclining chairs, the movies while you wait, and the pictures on the ceiling for when you must recline.

"I've been telling my dentist he should get a teaching lamp so I could work on my aquaria while my teeth are being capped," she said.

"A dental visit could well be the next status symbol. And my idea is as good as going to have his secretary write it up for both Dental Management and Dental Economics. They are always trying to find ways to make our visits more enjoyable, you see."

She looked at her watch and picked up her suitcase. "Got to go," she said. "I am to watch the second episode of Robert Redford's new movie before my appointment, and want to have time to look at the new tooth status before I go."

She walked off and I stood there, feeling alone and forlorn, with my lips tightly pulled over my teeth so no one could see that I'm in the rift-riff income bracket. I belong to the poor masses who can no longer manage to have their teeth capped and remain solvent.

Clean up Canada thistle for up to three years with Roundup®.

When tough perennials like Canada thistle invade your summer-fallow land, working the land won't get rid of them. If you just leave them, they'll spread. And you know how difficult those roots can make tillage.

But a patch treatment in summer-fallow with Roundup® herbicide by Monsanto controls Canada thistle. Roundup knocks out tough perennials, right down to the roots, so they won't grow back. Just work around Canada thistle patches until the weeds are at or beyond the bud stage, spray with Roundup, wait seven days, then continue tillage.

When you use a patch treatment of

Cornwood news

Picnic is planned

By Linda Ward

The Cornwood Country Club held its May meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Crawford.

Plans were made for the social to be held on June 19 at the Community Center. Tickets are available from Country Club members. Made by Betty and Carol.

There will be a consignment auction on June 19 at the Cornwood Community Centre.

The sale will be conducted by Peter Auctions. There will be a booth on the grounds.

The Lindsay Playgroup went on a field trip to McLeod and Berrymed Valley Zoo on June 1.

The Lindsay Kindergarten is holding their graduation on June 11 at the Lindsay School.

The Farmers' Day picnic will be held on June 12. There will be a concession booth, ball games and a dance in the evening at the Lindale Hall.

Two young people in the area celebrated birthdays recently. They were Joy Larsson and Danny Adair.

Mrs. Elsie Barrett was the lucky winner of an Ameri-Flax at the opening of the new bus depot in Edmonton.

This enables her and a companion to travel free anywhere in Canada or the United States for 30 days. Mrs. Barrett and granddaughter Ellen Yelchovsky left on June 8 to begin their holiday.

There will be a dummy ball game in Braton on June 20. Cornwood will have players entered and hope lots of fans will come to cheer them on.

Foster parents honored

Tomahawk news
by
Evelyn Lukantuk
339-3957

Each year, Alberta Social Services and Community Health in conjunction with Alberta Foster Parents' Association recognizes the contributions made by foster parents with an annual dinner awards night. A banquet and dance were held in honor of these foster parents on May 30 in Edmonton. Hilda and Charles Zander were guests of this occasion, receiving a certificate of merit in recognition of 10 years of understanding and devotion to children in care, presented by the minister of Social Services, Trudy and Max Pelling also attended and received a five year certificate.

There will be a July 1 picnic at Tomahawk this year, starting off with a parade at 10 a.m. down main street to the sports grounds. Anyone wishing to enter the parade can contact: Wade Trimbale at 838-3082.

Attractions of the day will be ball games, horseshows, magic and races for young and old. There will be a hamburger booth and a concession booth. There will be a gate fee of $1 for 16 to 64 years.

The next blood pressure clinic will be on June 17 from 9 to 9:30 p.m. The Father's Day pancake breakfast, served by the Men's, will be on June 11.

There will be a miscellaneous bachelorette party at the club room on June 14 at 1:30 p.m. for Hilary St. Clair, Les Fink's fiancée. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Get well wishes to Rose Furdich who is getting around on crutches because of a badly sprained ankle and to Judy Scott who has arrived home from the hospital recently from a polio strain operation.

Ray and Lorraine MacLachlan and their two daughters Brenda and Heidi will be leaving Tomahawk at the end of June. They're moving to West Hill, which is a few miles west of Grande Prairie, to open up a new business there. They're hoping to sell their trailer before they leave.

They came to Tomahawk in September, 1975, and took over Dan Scholten's gas business.

They were in the gas business for five years, and now they're off on a new adventure. Hopefully they'll do well in it.

Discovery

Fortress cannot shield us from God

By Rev. A.F. Irving

In April Mrs. Irving and I travelled to Israel and had a two-week tour of this holy land.

Among the places we visited was the fortress of Masada. It is situated south and east of Jerusalem on the western side of the Dead Sea. The Dead Sea is 1,200 feet below the Mediterranean Sea level with some flat ground close to the sea possibly a mile wide in places and surrounded by rugged limestone mountains.

On one of these the fortress of Masada was built. It is a mountain, standing some 1,200 feet above the Dead Sea and has a very steep climb from any direction. Tourists can reach the top from a cable car and then walk 50 steps. The top of the mountain is flat and covers about 80 acres. Stone walls were built around the edge with living quarters, store houses and all the other necessary buildings.

Rain water was collected when it rained, about four times a year, and stored in a large cistern below the fortress and interconnected. On a lower level or shelf on the mountain was Herod's own place and living quarters.

The question came to my mind: why a fortress like this is such a disaster, because it was not a trade route and was not a natural mountain pass. The answer given by our guide was something like this. Herod, the governor, was afraid for his own life, because public opinion could change very quickly. The surest way to secure your stand was to kill your predecessor. It happened on some occasions that a son would kill his own father to gain the throne. Then, too, Caesar's attitude could change very suddenly. To protect himself in such a situation, Herod spent many millions of hours of slave labor to rebuild this great fortress to protect himself. It did not help him, however, as later on he failed to give God the glory and the records tell us "he was eaten with worms, and gave up the ghost." (Acts 12:23)

Jesus gave the parable of the man who had very good crops and so tore down his barns and built greater to store all his goods. He said to himself: "Good, you have much goods laid up for many days. Take them down, eat, drink and be merry." But God said "Thou fool, this night shall thy soul be required of thee." (Luke 12:16-21)

Everyone shall give account of himself to God. No fortress can prevent this.

Alder Flats church

New pastor is welcomed

The Alder Flats Covenant Church will welcome its new pastor and wife to the community next Sunday evening (June 14). A program is planned for 7 p.m. which will feature special music and singing and a social hour following. The entire community is invited to meet the new pastoral couple.

Dwight and Sharon Tinsell come to Alder Flats from Chicago, Illinois, where he has been attending the Covenant Seminary. Mr. Tinsell is a native of Oregon where he completed his college training before enrolling in the seminary study program.

He will serve as pastor of the Alder Flats congregation for one year before returning to complete the remaining requirements for his degree and ordination. He previously served on the staff of the First United Methodist Church in Grasmere, Oregon, as youth

Mrs. Tinsell, Sharon, is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Runkberg, pastor of the Covenant Church in Boston. Rev. Runkberg will assist in the pastoral work of Alder Flats during this interim ministry.

An installation service for the new minister will be conducted by Rev. Keith Follmer, co-pastor and superintendent, on June 14 at 10:30 a.m. The community is welcome to attend.

The pastor and his wife will reside in the mobile home recently located on the church property.

Employees hold picnic

By L.H. Bailey
121-5261

On May 30 employees of the County of Parkland and their families gathered at Moon Lake for their annual family picnic, barbecue and dance.

The rain held off long enough for the ball games and races, but not of made things damp for the time being.

Next year will see the 40th picnic held at Moon Lake. It is a good understanding of what school is all about.

Last weekend, Lloyd and Judy Bailey and Peg enjoyed some good fishing at Lake Ida. They were joined later in the afternoon by the Smith family.

Don and Cindy Dine and their four children visited at the Leonard Engelhardt home last Sunday.

Mrs. Myrtle Engelhardt of Edmonton visited at the Ruppel and Engelhardt home last week. She came out to attend her great-grandson (Neil Ruppel's) preschool graduation party.

An installation service for the new minister will be conducted by Rev. Keith Follmer, co-pastor and superintendent, on June 14 at 10:30 a.m. The community is welcome to attend.

The pastor and his wife will reside in the mobile home recently located on the church property.

Wishing Well news

Seniors start quilting

By Belle Cohen
Although the weather was quite rainy on May 25 our pot luck supper was a good success. As many of our residents at the Wishing Well put our suppers together and had plenty of food.
Mrs. Sturgeon's daughter came in and enjoyed it with us from Port St. John. We hope you enjoyed yourself. Back. We all had a good social visit and all who wanted to played bridge.
Well, we have our quilting dress, as you can see. We are going to do some quilting for the Wishing Well club. Our new clock were looking good in the lounge. There is no reason not to see the members as they are large and it won't stop when the electricity goes off.

Thanks to the Royal Purple for the lovely flower pot holder. It sure is a nice little miniature wheel barrow. The wheel will be sure to turn. The faster the old lady does her washing.
On June 5, Joan Charrington returned home after a lovely trip with her son Don and Lynn Charrington. They motored up to Grande Prairie to see Joan's daughter and family.
What a lovely surprise we had when Richard Charrington came walking in on Saturday evening. He had a weekend rest from the Gloucester Hospital.

It is nice to see him doing so well after his major operation on both legs. He calls himself the blonde man but we call him the million dollar man. Anyway, it was great to see you, Richard. We were so happy.
Annie Delvey is away seeing her sister who is living in Pampa and is very ill. Sorry, Penny.
Anna Mody is also away in Edmonton to see her sister who is feeling very fast. We are sorry. Both Penny and Anna have our deepest sympathies.
Well, soon school will be out and the school yards will be empty. We will miss the children in the school yards and we hope they will have a safe and happy holiday.

Morels found locally

By Linda Green
This spring, for the first time in years, I have found an abundance of morels.
Morels are a choice species of mushroom. They are also very easily recognized even by an inexperienced person.
I also found one type of false morel, a closely related species. The false morel is also edible, but for those with a sensitivity to the mushroom, it can cause illness.
The stem is a pale cream color, the top is brown, but darkens to nearly black as it ages. The top is deeply pitted. This type is sometimes referred to as a "sheep lid" because of the shape and size. It is also found in poplar woods. The false morel has the same colors as the true morel, but the top is irregular in shape, and smooth rather than pitted. If you wish to eat the false morel, first use a small amount on yourself to find out if you are sensitive to it. My family is able to eat them without side effects, but use them cautiously!

Anta and other small insects often hide in the stems and the hollows of the morel cap, so clean them carefully to avoid unpleasant surprises at the dinner table.
Morels also freeze and dry readily.

Artistic efforts are favored

A farm wife's almanac by Joanne Benger

Today, June 10, finds us in the heart of the second quarter of the year. The weather is beautiful and the sun is shining. It is a good time to be a farmer's wife.

Personalities will have to be taken into account. It is a good time to be a farmer's wife.

Remember first quarter when you put those ideas into practice. It is a good time to be a farmer's wife.

Writers should get down ideas as they come during first quarter. It is a good time to be a farmer's wife.

Friday mid-afternoon we enter the fruitful year of the second quarter and harvest. It is a good time to be a farmer's wife.

Creative people may find a slacker mood replaces the harmony of work done under labor. It is a good time to be a farmer's wife.

HORSE SALE AT Thorsby Auction Mart

Wednesday, June 17, 1981 at 7:00 p.m. All types of Horses & Tack will be on offer.

THORSBY AUCTION LTD. 1000 - 10th Street, Drayton Valley, Alta. T40 1S0

There are three smartweds found growing in Alberta - pale smartweed, which is a native plant, and green smartweed and lady's thumb, which have been introduced from Europe.

Because these large plants stay succulent all year long, they bulk the earth and take a long time to dry enough to combine. This factor may delay harvesting with unfortunate effects.

Cultural Control Before smartweds plants can be destroyed, the weeds must be induced to germinate. Smartweds, similar to most annual weeds, do not necessarily germinate readily. This means that if unsatisfactory growth conditions exist to prevent germination, the weeds will survive. Man, in his control efforts, attempts to provide good germination conditions and through cultivation to remove the seedling weeds.

Shallow cultivation to the fall and spring encourages the weeds to germinate. This is a following shallow cultivation will extend their period of dormancy. Deep cultivation several years later will bring these

French language books available

By Lyle Peterson
Librarian

Please note the library will change to the following hours of operation during July and August: Monday, Wednesday and Friday - 9 to 5 p.m.; Tuesday - 10 to 6 p.m.; Wednesday - 10 to 1 p.m.

The library will be closed July 1 and July 2. Summer sessions will be in effect from July 3 to August 31, inclusive. Regular hours will resume September 1.

Extended Loan Period
To allow library patrons extra reading time during vacation, the loan period for all books and materials will be extended to four weeks from the usual two weeks, beginning June 24 and ending September 3.

We are grateful for the recent donation from Cheryl Standard Limited. A new section is now being added to the donor board in the form of memorials. If any individual family or group wishes to make a donation to the library in memory of a loved one, a suitably engraved plaque will be placed on the donor board.

Memberships
Library memberships during April and May totalled 126. You may be interested to know that the library is now open to all residents of Drayton Valley. The library is a summer book bag.

In checking over the grocery list, it is not surprising to see many convenience foods as regular purchases. The cost of these items is higher than the conventional counterpart, as we're sure you are ready serving all that time we are for.

nutrition, and do not save a lot of time. Instant oatmeal and rice are quick, but oatmeal and rice are extra five cents per ounce.

Another product in the one dish line, available as complete frozen dinners or noodle/hamburger mixtures, they are popular grocery items because they make supper so quick and easy to prepare. They are easy to prepare because all you have to do is put a frozen dinner in the oven. It can take 30 to 40 minutes for it to be ready, resulting in a somewhat messy product.

The nutritional content, overall quality, and time actually saved varies with the regular version, so find that there are more costs, less sure, you still have to brown hamburger and the noodles still have to cook, so you might as well add your own pasta and meatings and save 95 cents.

Convenience products suit those who haven't got single ingredients in the kitchen. They are useful "emergency" items at the cottage where storage space is limited and it is not practical to stock staples such as flour, sugar or meat.

Have a look at your shopping cart. Are the convenience foods really saving time? Prices are high enough to get value for our food dollar by co-ordinating meals, family preferences, nutrition and time into the repeated skill of meal preparation.

Check your property value

Do you know how much you own and what it is worth? I bet you don't. Most people only have a vague idea. Hopefully you have never been robbed, and never will be.

Insurance agents stress that consumers really should know what they paid for (and property), and have a reasonable idea of what it is worth today. The reason? If your home is ever broken into and things stolen, you will need to prove the value of your loss to the insurance company. Of course, it's not mandatory to produce official records on all your possessions, but it will sure help in getting your money and getting it back.

So, what to do: Take some free time some day (some day soon) and collect all your receipts for major purchases. If you don't have them, collect warranties, guarantees, operating manuals, anything that describes the item or verifies ownership.

Then walk around your house with a sheet of paper and make an inventory of all your household possessions: furniture, appliances, china, silverware, even miscellaneous items such as clothes, shoes and kids' toys. And of course, don't forget the garage. There could be a goldmine in there. And in your attic—you may have valuable antiques.

It may help to photograph each room, or walk around with a cassette recorder and talk to yourself.

Next, stop estimating the value of each item, based on the cost of replacing it at today's prices. You may be surprised how affluent you are when you add up your wealth. Once you've done the inventory and the pricing take the photographs, cassette, receipts, whatever, and put them in a safe place—preferably off the premises. If you have a safe deposit box, that's ideal.

And, last but not least, compare the value of your possessions with your home-owner's insurance. You may find that you are ridiculously under-insured. Do something about it. It may be the market's move you've ever made.

Insurance and household inventories can be a boring topic, something to put off until tomorrow. I think we're all guilty of procrastination, but really—the sooner you get this done, the better. What a shame to lose all your belongings in a fire and have to start all over again from scratch, at today's prices!

Study blames accounting method

By Dale Lenan
The Town of Drayton Valley's accounting and budgetary systems have received the bulk of blame for the town's current financial situation, a study commissioned by town council indicates.

The study, prepared by Gary Stamm of Economic Research Associates of Toronto, says the poor systems are directly responsible for town council's inability to prepare a workable budget.

"The accounting information process, if it can be called that, which is in place in the Town of Drayton make political decisions.

Mr. Stamm said just weeks after release of the report that the major culprit behind the poor rating in the town's dual computer system, and especially the NCR computer installed by the town four years ago.

At that time, the NCR was bought to replace the existing IBM system, and it was the administration's and council's hope, that the new computer would greatly ease the accounting staff.

However, Mr. Stamm said, the administrative staff of the town at the time were not trained in the proper use of the computer, and it gradually lost its effectiveness as the administration increasingly relied on manual accounting systems.

"What you really have in place now is inadequate and is leaving council without the needed information base to proper operation of a municipality," Mr. Stamm noted.

The study compared Drayton Valley's financial position to that of 20 other municipalities in the province having purely expenditure within $1,000 of Drayton Valley's.

On comparison, Drayton Valley did not stack up too well, with the town spending, on a per capita basis, more than any of the other towns studied.

In 1979, Drayton Valley spent about $205 per capita to serve key areas of operation (general government, protection, transportation, environmental health, public health and welfare, environmental development and recreation and culture). During the same year, the average for the 20 towns studied was $225, the study shows.

In addition, tax revenues were 17 per cent below the average and the per capita assessment was $2,684, compared to the average of $3,022.

"If you combine the 20 per cent over average expenditures with the lack of tax revenues, you can see that Drayton Valley has simply overpaid itself in the past in relation to the amount of money that is available," Mr. Stamm noted.

What all the numbers add up to in the report is the fact that Drayton Valley is currently carrying a debt of more than $5.5 million, an increase of more than $3 million in the last four years. And the debt is going to get larger, Mr. Stamm noted, before it gets smaller.

"Already your debt is out of line with what it should be, and when the debt charges for the sewer trunk line (about $1.3 million) hit the books, you are going to have another large increase," he said.

In his report, Mr. Stamm pointed to two major reasons for the large debt, the most serious being the lack of action in the Town Phase II development in the northeast section of town.

To date, the town has not more than $1.4 million into the development, and has received nothing in return for its investment.

Consequently, the town is losing money on its investment, and in order to realize any sort of completion of the development, a further $1.7 million will have to be spent.

However, the report says, that would bring the cost per lot in the subdivision to $25,000, if the process could be completed by 1985, and in view of the current oil out backs and resultant financial slowdowns in the area, the report states such an action is not feasible.

"Despite all the doom and gloom of the report, Mr. Stamm has offered several recommended courses of action for the town to employ in order to dig itself out from under the problem.

First and foremost, Mr. Stamm's report recommends that the current freeze on capital spending be continued, until such time as a five year capital works budget is approved by council.

"That five year budget is currently being prepared, and should be ready for council's consideration within a few months.

Rodeo gaining appeal

The Lions Evergreen Rodeo appears to be gaining in popularity with every passing year, as an estimated 2,000 rodeo fans clicked through the turnstiles over the two-day event last weekend.

Pulp industry almost certain

By Dale Lenan
The development of the timber industry in Drayton Valley is now almost a certainty as provincial energy and natural resources minister Merv Leitch announced Monday that cabinet has approved the offering of two major timber areas west of town for development.

The two areas, named the Norbury Block and the O'Chiese Block, contain some of the best available stands of hard and soft woods in North America, and one of them, the O'Chiese Block, is of primary concern to Makin Project Initiators.

With the announcement from Mr. Leitch, the Makin project now looks better than ever, and a spokesman for the group said Tuesday all that remains is a lot of work.

Jan Mahood, logging manager for Makin, told the Initiators.

Rodeo organizers Stan Kurtylo and Glen Nash estimated that 1,700 fans turned out for the rodeo and races on Sunday, with "about half that many" showing up for Saturday's events.

"It's not quite a few on Saturday when the rodeo came, but it was overall a really good turnout," Mr. Kurtylo said Monday.

The ride, which started just after the intermission Saturday afternoon, lasted for about 20 minutes, and while a good crowd was on hand before the sky opened up, many fans didn't return after the rain quit.

Those that did stay saw three local fireworks set off by the rodeo events, with Everett, King of Drayton Valley, toppling out to the junior steer riding event.

He had a chance of $8 to take the $150 added purse afforded in his event.

A pair of head calf ropers, Dale Gern and Jan Gern, of Drayton Valley, took the Jegan roping event with a time of 11.78.

A Daifield cowboy, Terry Mithink, sustained injuries of the bull riding event Sunday afternoon and was taken to the Drayton Valley hospital. He was diagnosed as having a low lunge and was held overnight for observation, according to a hospital spokesman.

The midway, which was a little smaller than last year, was also a success, Mr. Kurtylo said, with average
